When Her Back Aches

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Norway women know how the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, all tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of dropsy or Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Here's proof of it in a Norway woman's words:

Mrs. Solon Moore, Tucker, St. Norway, Me., says: "For the past five years I was troubled by disordered kidneys. My whole body seemed to ache and it was caused much annoyance by the kidney secretions. I tried many remedies but was not relieved until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Stone's Drug Store. They benefited me greatly. Other members of my family have taken this remedy with good results."

The above statement was given July 24, 1908 and on July 18, 1911 Mrs. Moore said: "I have had no recurrence of my former trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

A Leap Year Plea.

Written for the Advertiser.

If in your grave you peacefully are resting, Darling of my dreams; If all in vain and hopeless be my questing, Sometimes I seem to see you smiling me, sweetheart, would your spirit bless me,

It seems should cease its searching up and down? Over yonder, there in Beulah town? For long, long years of you I have been dreaming.

Those days you would greet me with a smile; My mind, dear one, our future love life scheming.

My lonely heart through idle hours beat; I pray do not think of me thus and in sorrow; That I never once to you my love may tell, Perchance that I may meet you, dear, tomorrow.

I will not bid my fondest hope farewell, Pre-attentions being ready to express you, When some fair face has set my brain on whirl, Alas, dear heart! (And now my Heaven bless you).

Alack! To find it was some other girl; I've hung my stocking for you many a Christmas.

I've roamed through halls of pleasure twenty Leaps.

Do telephone your number, late or isthmus, And finish my soul barrowing suspense.

BETHEL.

Academy Fair.

The annual Academy fair was held Thursday afternoon, February 1st. The chapel was made attractive with booths of the different classes which were decorated with their class colors.

The Freshman class sold the candy table while the other classes sold useful and fancy articles. The Alumni table realized over sixty-five dollars. The total amount taken in cannot be estimated yet, but it is certain that a goodly sum was obtained.

Margaret E. Herick sold the most tickets for the entertainment and was given an Academy pillow. Arthur Cummings, receiving the most votes for popular young man, was awarded the chair pillow. Supper was in charge of Miss Pratt assisted by Mr. Mayfield.

The drama entitled "The Sophomore" was presented in the evening and was very entertaining, the pupils taking their parts with ease and naturalness.

No one person could stand out as excelling another as each was a star in their own particular character. This part of the entertainment was under the direction of Miss Randall and Mrs. Addie Den Kerckhoven. Miriam Herick had charge of the music and every number was well applauded and showed splendid training. Margaret E. Herick's violin solo was a pleasing addition to the program. A social dance followed the drama.

After graduating, he was appointed graduate assistant in chemistry in Bates College, and held the position two years, when he entered Hartford Seminary. Mr. Holmes joined the Pine Street Congregational church at Lewiston in 1904, during his freshman year. He was made a deacon of the church in 1909.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is no cure for deafness, and that is by constitutional condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running ear, which is a nuisance, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and on less the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for each case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that can be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Sold by F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Fryeburg.

Dies at an Advanced Age.

The death of Sylvanus Knox occurred Monday, Jan. 22, at 8.30 p. m. at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Goldthwaite at the Bowker farm in South Fryeburg. Death was due to the infirmities of old age. He being 90 years, 6 months, 15 days old. He had not been feeling well for some time but was able to be about and was confined to the bed only five days.

Mr. Knox was born in Limerick, but the greater part of his life was spent in Fryeburg. The last five years he had lived with his daughter in South Fryeburg, who survives him, also a son Frank in Fryeburg and two grandchildren, one of whom, Mrs. Everett Baker, resides with Mrs. Goldthwaite and the other lives in Fryeburg.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home Rev. Maurio Dankle of Edwards' Congregational church, Saxtonville officiating. Burial was in Fryeburg, Mr. and Mrs. Goldthwaite accompanying the remains.

He also leaves two brothers, Simeon Knox of Farmington, N. H., who is 81 years old and who attended the funeral coming alone from Farmington, and Samuel Knox of Chicago, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Stevens of Gorham, N. H.

His son Frank also attended the service. The floral tributes included, pillow of white plinks with purple letters forming the words Father, from Mr. and Mrs. John Goldthwaite; A large spray of ferns and pinks, from Mr. and Mrs. Everett; A spray of roses, from Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Harriman, and assorted pinks, from Mr. and Mrs. Sander-son.

The drama, "The Time of His Life," was presented at Academy Hall by the members of the senior class, Fryeburg Academy, on the evening of February 8th.

B. T. Newman has just finished two paintings. Both are scenes at North Conway. The smaller, 4x7 ft., is a winter scene of Penikese Brook with a peak of Chocorua Mountain in the background. The coloring is mainly blue and white, and the atmosphere and clear cut lines of a winter landscape are faithfully portrayed. The other canvas is 6x8 ft., a summer scene of Mount Washington and the ledges at its base with the interval in the face ground. The mist effect between the mountain and the ledge is exquisite.

SWIFT'S LOWELL ANIMAL FERTILIZERS

MAKE INTENSIVE FARMING A REALITY.

They make it possible to increase the yield from a given acreage thereby saving much in labor and time. They produce a profitable crop and provide for future years by laying up a reserve fertility.

Swift's Fertilizers are soil builders as well as crop producers, especially adapted to the soil of New England farms. They are based upon animal matter—Bone, Blood, Meat—which has been added Potash in such proportions as to produce a perfectly natural plant food.

PLEASED WITH SWIFT'S POTATO GROWER.

"I have used Swift's Potato Grower for several years, and am much pleased with it. Raised 30 bushels potatoes per acre this year. It is very dry and runs through the planter without any trouble. I used one ton to the acre."

G. D. BLAKE, Atkinson, Maine.

SWIFT'S WITH A LIGHT COAT OF MANURE.

"I am sending you pictures of my Red Cob English Corn, raised on your Animal Brand, which stood from 10 to over 15 feet high. On six acres I have harvested sixty-five bushels, all that I could handle with a pair of horses that weigh 2000 lbs., after it had been dried as thoroughly as it could be done. The heads would have weighed 15 tons each. I used a light coat of manure and 400 lbs. Animal Brand per acre."

Nothing is really so unbearable as laziness. In the case of the idle man the "mind grows itself," as the French say. Pascal said that when a soldier, or a laborer, complains of the work which he has to do, let him be put to doing nothing. The lazy man, it has been said is a self-executioner, he becomes the pitiable victim of his own ennu.

The Boomerang.

The boomerang, a missile instrument for war, sport or the chase, in use by Australian aborigines, was first made known by being brought before the Royal Irish academy by Professor McCullagh in 1837.

Under the Roman empire knights, senators and even women met in combat in the arena.

How to Clean Feather.

The safest method of cleaning a white ostrich plume is to move it back and forth in gasoline. Put about a quart of gasoline in a pan and move the feather about in it gently, using great care not to break the stem nor tear off the flues. If the feather is extensively soiled more than one portion of gasoline may be required. Hang the feather in the sun and air to dry. When dry take each flue between the fingers and curl it with a dull bladed knife. In using gasoline be careful not to be near the gaslight.

How to Wash Windows.

There is a wrong way to wash windows and a right way too. This is the right way: Choose a time when the sun is not shining on the glass. Take a brush and dust the window inside and out, washing all the wood-work inside before touching the glass, which should be washed slowly in warm water and a dash of ammonia. Do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners. Wipe dry with a soft piece of cotton cloth. Polish with old newspapers.

CARD OF THANKS.

I take this opportunity to express my appreciation of the kindness extended to my family during the illness and death of my sister, Mrs. Lydia Westbrooke, and I wish especially to thank Mr. and Mrs. William Stone for the kindly thoughtfulness.

Mrs. DORA L. SPEAR.
Westbrook, Maine.

HARRISON.

Harrison Town Clock.
Harrison is enjoying its new Town Clock, for which we are indebted principally to Prof. F. E. Bristol, of New York, who last summer, brought a class of thirty students to our town for vocal training, both he and his pupils became deeply interested in the welfare of the community and surroundings and cast about for an opportunity to express this interest in a material way.

They were not long in deciding that a Town Clock in the tower of Odd Fellows Block (a real one) to take the place of the dummy that has been indicating 10.33 ever since the tower was built, would be useful as well as an ornamental addition to our village, and to prove that their decision was wise, one has only to glance at the beautiful ground glass clock dials or listen to the deep mellow toned striking bell.

To secure the necessary funds, Prof. Bristol gave two mid-summer concerts that netted a goodly sum and the balance was secured by subscriptions from town's people and summer visitors, among the latter Harry Melosh of Jersey City, N. J., was the last and largest contributor to the clock fund, he voluntarily made up the rather formidable deficiency.

But this slight fire makes us think that there should be one or more fire escapes built on this building before any more lamps fall.

Another Negation.

Boston, Mass., January 29, 1912.
FRIEND EDITOR:—Once in a while I feel like "battering in" on Norway affairs, and this is one of the times, and I want to "batter in" strong. Of course, like all good "Norwayites," I have the interest of the town at heart.

In your paper of January 12, 1912, I read of the plan to get out elm trees on the Lake road, and I would like to advise not doing so, and my reason is this:—When I first came to Cambridge, Mass. about twenty years ago, it was a city of beautiful elms; today it might well be called the "City of mutilated elms" because of the damage done by the Elm beetle, to say nothing of the Brown-tailed and Gypsy moths, despite the expense and labor put forth to check the same. Around the Harvard College grounds, particularly, were a large number of elm trees; these are now partly and some wholly destroyed by the above mentioned pests, while the few maple trees that are scattered here and there are apparently untouched.

Now the point I would like to bring out is this:—Why not plant maple, (either Rock or River) or some other hardwood trees, which, from the condition of the trees in Cambridge and other cities in Massachusetts, do not seem to be destroyed or even affected by the pests, which seem to make the elm trees their special field for destruction? Perhaps the elm beetle has not yet spread to Maine, but there is no doubt that it will, as it is increasing rapidly like the Brown-tailed and Gypsy moths, and all efforts to check any or all of these pests, so far, have been in vain; it has been a continual fight and a losing fight from start to finish.

Another point; there is no doubt but that in a few years there will be an electric road running through Norway, and that would be but another means of destroying the elms, as they seem to be more susceptible to electrolysis than other trees.

The River maple, as you probably know, is a very fast growing tree, and in a very few years make a beautiful shade tree with its wide spreading branches and thick foliage, and the maple grows faster than the elm, and what is more beautiful than the fall foliage of the hardwood maples?

I make these suggestions knowing the interest you have always taken in Norway affairs, and feeling that you would like to make improvements to the best advantage of all concerned.

If, after reading this over, you think it worth while, you might call it to the attention of the committee, and I will be glad to give them any further information that I can, if they so desire.

Sincerely yours, H. A. M.

Joseph Andrews' Letters.

In Memory of a Young Mother-Built an Academy-Beneath the Shadow of Mt. Keams-Narrow Escape-4 Doves Ducks Killed by Shooting without Drawing Blood-A Long Remembered Poem. No. IV.

In writing these sketches of my own and other lives I must of necessity refer often to myself, but it will not be in any spirit of self praise for the one great stumbling block that has always stood in my way has been lack of confidence in myself. It drove me from the schoolroom at an early age and has ever hung like a dark shadow all along the pathway of my life. A cousin of mine who has something of a pug nose, but in spite of that handicap has won distinction as a lawyer, judge and politician, once said to me that he would give a thousand dollars if he had my nose, and I would gladly have given that much if I could have had one-half of his self confidence. But why repine at our short comings, for no doubt that most of us lack some element of greatness in our make-up, and we will all get just what is coming to us when we cross the silent river and kneeling at the Golden Gate, ask of good old St. Peter for our passports to the Land of Light.

I have always felt proud of my father's family (the youngest one always excluded) sixteen children, fourteen of whom grew to be stalwart men and women, and I have always classed myself, to use a mild expression, as the simple one of my father's family.

My father was born in Billerica, Mass., Aug. 15, 1774. He came to Lovell, Me., with his father when a boy and grew to manhood on the farm long owned by Charles Andrews well up on the side of Sabattus mountain.

He was three times married, first to Hannah Barker of Lovell in 1797. She died Oct. 17th, 1804. Last summer while visiting in West Fryeburg I was asked by Prof. Melvin Ballard of Washington, D. C., where my father's first wife was buried and I could not answer him, and began to investigate. After I went to Lovell Center and searching among the graves in the graveyard there I found near my grandfather's, Capt. Abraham Andrews' grave, a low down slate gravestone on which the following inscription was carved more than a hundred years ago: "In memory of Mrs. Hannah Andrews, wife of Mr. Abraham Andrews, Jr., died Oct. 17th, 1804, aged 20 years." Thus at the early age of 20 passed to the other side this young mother, leaving three motherless children, and with a babe in the grave beside her.

The three living children were Abraham, Stephen and Solomon. Of the first two I shall write later in this story. Solomon grew up on his father's farm in Lovell. Up to about 1840 he was a merchant with his half-brother, George W., at North Bridgton, Maine. In 1854 he went to New Haven, Ct., where he lived for four years while his son George was through college. In the winter of 1870 when I made my first return visit to Maine, I found him living in the city of New York, and the six days that I visited with him there were amongst the most pleasant of my life.

George was at that time a noted lawyer, and some years later was elected and served for a term of 14 years as one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York.

My father's second wife was Sally Frye of Fryeburg. As the fruits of this marriage there were ten children born, Hannah, Dean, Susan, Mary, George, Sarah, Simon, John, Caroline and Joseph S. Of these Dean became a Congregational minister and settled in Marshall, Ill., where he was for many years pastor of the Congregational church there. With his brother Simon he built a large brick three-story academy building of which he was principal and Simon was assistant for quite a long time. He died in 1872. In the same year Simon F. moved to Dakota territory, where he filed on a homestead adjoining my own, where we both grew up with the country. He died in 1887. He had five children, three of whom are living, their homes being at Hurley near the old homestead.

Forty years ago I visited the two brothers at their homes at Marshall, Ill. I found the aged wife and her two children still occupying the old manse. A new $25,000 church had just been built to take the place of the old one and a $500 memorial window inscribed to the memory of the Rev. Dean Andrews, one of the smaller windows bearing the names of Simon F. Andrews and wife showed plain that words could tell the two brothers, although absent, was not forgotten.

George W. was lawyer by profession. He was a merchant with his brother at North Bridgton for a while, then moved to Brookville, Pa., where he practiced law for about 25 years. He then retired and went to Denver, Col., where he died. He left two sons, both of them prosperous bankers living in Brazil, Ind., where I visited them three years ago.

John S. was born March 4th, 1820, and died unmarried in 1840. I have been told that the cause of his death was a horsething cattle received on the neck while driving east through the timber.

Joseph S. was born July 23d, 1825, and died about nine months later. On Oct. 7th, 1839, my father married for his third wife, Abigail Colby, daughter of Robert Colby of West Fryeburg, and on the 22d of January, 1841, my sister, Abby A., was born on the old Andrews homestead, where Henry Andrews now lives, and three years later my own birth was heralded to the world (a very small world).

My father who owned a large tract of timber land away back amongst the Chatham hills, in order to be near his work, either to buy or build the house owned by the late John Andrews, and now owned by Alvin Reed at Green Hill, N. H., where he moved a short time before my birth and there almost beneath the shadow of old Mt. Keams, my baby eyes first saw the light of day. At least one woman besides my mother was present at my birth, for on one of my visits to Maine I met at the home of John Andrews of Conway a Mrs. Smith, who told me that she was present at my birth.

The following few incidents of my father's life were told me by my mother in later years. The timber land he bought of down east parties, but where down east was have not the least idea. But once a year he made a trip down east to make the payments as my came due upon his land. He spent a good deal of his time traveling through the woods running out and establishing the lines of the different lots of land, and he always carried a little hand ax to blaze the trees with. This little ax I was the proud possessor of until some twenty years ago when it was either lost or stolen from the farm.

THESE SIX LETTERS

From New England Women

Prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Restore the Health of Ailing Women.

Boston, Mass.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from hemorrhages (sometimes lasting for weeks), and could get nothing to check them. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (tablet form) Tuesday, and the following Saturday morning the hemorrhages stopped. I have taken them regularly ever since and am steadily gaining."

"I certainly think that every one who is troubled as I was should give your Compound Tablets a faithful trial, and they will find relief."—Mrs. GEORGE JURY, 802 Fifth Street, South Boston, Mass.

Letter from Mrs. Julia King, Phenix, R.I.

Phenix, R.I.—"I worked steadily in the mill from the time I was 12 years old until I had been married a year, and I think that caused my bad feelings. I had soreness in my side near my left hip that went around to my back, and sometimes I would have to lie in bed for two or three days. I was not able to do my housework."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me wonderfully in every way. You may use my letter for the good of others. I am only too glad to do anything within my power to recommend your medicine."—Mrs. JULIA KING, Box 282, Phenix, R.I.

Letter from Mrs. Etta Donovan, Willimantic, Conn.

Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles causing backache, irregularities, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk up stairs without stopping on the way. I tried three doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them but seemed to suffer more. The last doctor said it was no use for me to take anything as nothing would restore me to health again. So I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and by taking seven bottles of the Compound and another treatment you advised, I am restored to my natural health."—Mrs. ETNA DONOVAN, 762 Main Street, Willimantic, Conn.

Letter from Mrs. Winfield Dana, Augusta, Me.

Augusta, Me.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured the backache, headache, and the bad pain I had in my right side, and I am perfectly well."—Mrs. WINFIELD DANA, R.F.D. No. 2, Augusta, Me.

Letter from Mrs. J. A. Thompson, Newport, Vt.

Newport, Vt.—"I thank you for the great benefit Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I took eight bottles and it did wonders for me, as I was a nervous wreck when I began taking it. I shall always speak a good word for it to my friends."—Mrs. JOHN A. THOMPSON, Box 3, Newport Center, Vermont.

Letter from Miss Grace Dodds, Bethlehem, N.H.

Bethlehem, N.H.—"By working very hard, sweeping carpets, washing, ironing, lifting heavy baskets of clothes, etc., I got all run down. (I was sick in bed for a week.)"

"This last Spring my mother got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and already I feel like another girl. I am regular and do not have the pains that I did, and do not have to go to bed. I will tell all my friends what the Compound is doing for me."—Miss GRACE B. DODDS, Box 133, Bethlehem, N.H.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments need despair. Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. was traveling along a mountain trail and he halted suddenly, "stop." He struck down with his cane amongst the leaves in the path and with a snap the jaws of a big bear sprang closed about one step more and his leg would have been caught in the cruel jaws.

On another occasion, as he was passing over fallen timber he slipped and fell headlong striking on his head and shoulders, barely missing a sharp pointed stump which would have pierced his skull if he had landed upon it. At that time he was standing on a log when the ax flew out of the man's hands with great force, barely missing my father who by the merest chance took a step one side just as the ax with a savage zip, passed where he had been standing but as instant before.

In later years, while living out at Lovell I used once or twice a year to make a trip out to Green Hill and West Fryeburg. For many years Jonathan Hill ran a falling and cutting mill at this place in Chatham where we used to bring our wool to be carded into rolls for spinning in the spring, then later we made another trip to get the rolls spun and then I did one up on the spinning and weaving and carding supply of clothing for the family a third trip was made to have the filling done, and later on a fourth trip was made to bring home the cloth now all ready for the tailor. My wife was usually the good mistress of the household, for all our clothing and linen then was homespun and home made.

My sister and I often made the trip and sometimes we were given a lay off for two or three days to visit our friends in Fryeburg, Conway and Green Hill. And we always considered that trip one of the treats of our lives. And always included in our trip a visit to uncle John Heath at Green Hill, where we always met with a warm welcome. One was the shooting of the young son good old aunt Mary Heath, was my mother's oldest sister, and she always had a warm place in her heart for my young kids.

Uncle John owned the large, fine farm now owned by his grand son, Edwin Heath, and was well to do. He was a famous hunter and fisherman and was a soldier of the war of 1812, being in the artillery service. I remember two incidents of his life which he told me. One was the shooting of the young son for desertion, which he said was the saddest sight that he ever saw, and the other that while stationed near a large body of water a large flock of ducks of two or three days to visit our friends in Fryeburg, Conway and Green Hill. To be sure if the grower is fortunate enough to be located close to a large city he finds there a market for most of the produce that he cannot sell to the cannery. Because such produce, while not wanted by the cannery, is yet cheap, wholesome, and in demand by the poorer class of city buyers.

This fact that canneries use only fruits and vegetable is one of the reasons for the rapidly growing use of canned goods. People, too, are getting over the absurd idea that injurious chemicals are used in preserving canned products. Nearly everyone now knows that heat alone is the sterilizing and preserving agent.

Once canneries are furnishing a market for ever increasing quantities of well grown vegetables and fruits. And this makes the market for the entire product of thousands of prosperous small farms in the well settled eastern and middle states.

SOUTH HARRISON.

J. Olin Ross.

Death has again entered our midst and taken one who will be missed by every body young and old as he always had a cheerful word for all. J. Olin Ross, the son of the late Joseph and Elvira (Snow) Ross, was born Aug. 2, 1846.

His death was very sudden on Jan. 20, as he had just carried his daughter to the Harrison station and had loaded a barrel of flour at H. E. Caswell's store when he pitched forward and died instantly. He had been in poor health for the past year.

The last years of his life have been particularly sad as he lost his only son Walter, about six years ago. A little over one year his wife was called to a higher life and last August he was called to part with his oldest daughter, Marion. All had long illnesses of tuberculosis.

He had one daughter left to mourn the loss of the last one of her father's family, Mrs. Harold Dyer of Portland. She has two children to comfort her at this sad time. He also left a sister, Mrs. Simeon Pendexter to whom this was an especially sad bereavement.

Funeral services were held at his home in South Harrison, conducted by Rev. C. M. Davis. Interment at the Center Cemetery.

A Party at Mr. F. Charles.

A party of twenty-eight, mostly grangers, met Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Charles and spent a pleasant evening.

Cards and other interesting games were played. The donkey game caused a good deal of sport as you had to be blindfolded and turned around three times and then go to the side of room where a donkey picture was, minus a tail, and pin one on just the first place you hit. Some hit several feet from the right place. A prize was awarded and Fred McAllister was the winner.

A bountiful treat of several kinds of cake and coffee was served. L. A. Flint and Mrs. Roy Wardwell furnished music on banjos and Cecil Kimball on the violin. The following is a list of presents from their guests:
